Excellence!

If excellence matters to you, consider studying in Madrid on a direct registration basis. AYA students take authentic, not island, courses with regular university professors at the Reunidas/Complutense in Madrid. AYA offers housing and cultural activities options: you pay for what you choose. AYA fees are low. Though direct registration will give you independence, your overseas director will provide guidance. Each AYA program accepts no more than 25 students. Since 1960, Academic Year Abroad has stood for excellence. Make the most of your year overseas. Why settle for less than the real thing?

Sarah Lawrence College at Oxford offers students the unparalleled opportunity to work individually with Oxford scholars in private tutorials, the hallmark of an Oxford education.

Open to qualified undergraduates, it is the only program sponsored by an American college that gives students from other colleges access to the full range of tutors and disciplines of Oxford University's 37 colleges. In addition, each student has a wide range of privileges in Wadham College. This special relationship gives students access to the College's junior common room, athletic teams, library, dining halls and social events, as well as voting rights in the Student Union.

Study in Oxford

We believe we offer the best overseas study program in Britain. So far as we know, no other program is able to offer students all the following five important guarantees:

1. Accepted students will be Associate Students of a Medieval or Renaissance college of Oxford University, not of a modern college.
2. Your academic reports will be authorized by the senior tutor (academic dean) of an Oxford college. You will not receive a transcript from an American college conducting its own classes in Oxford.
3. You will be taught only by fellows of Oxford colleges, the equivalent of associate or full professors. You will not be taught by junior faculty or graduate students.
4. You will be taught only in single tutorials which will be arranged before the commencement of term.

5. Your housing will be in a single bedroom within a five minute walk of the very center of Oxford. At least one of your housemates will be a non-American degree candidate from your own Oxford college. Your telephone will work the day you arrive and you will have a television and video in your building.

and receive the unique WISC money-back guarantee

In the unlikely event we fail to meet even one of these guarantees, a student who has received the guarantee in writing after requesting it with their application will be given a full refund of all fees paid for that term. If a student is considering other programs in Oxford, he or she might wish to ask if that program can match these guarantees.

So far as we know (we have been advertising this offer for four years) no other educational institution in the world offers a money-back guarantee.

Study in Chile & Argentina

Integrated university study at some of Latin America's top universities offers U.S. undergraduate students a full university curriculum and classes with Chileans and Argentines. Further integration is provided by housing students with local host families. Extensive support services are provided in each study site, including an extended orientation program, academic advising, e-mail access, and excursions.

Chilean Universities

Program

Chile is a long, narrow ribbon of land averaging just 100 miles wide on the west coast of South America. Within this sliver of land are many climates, from harsh northern deserts to the frozen southern Antarctic. The land between these two extremes is quite varied: a fertile central valley, towering Andes mountains, a beautiful lake district, and, of course, the rugged 2,700-mile-long Pacific coastline stretching the length of the country. Programs are offered in bustling Santiago and in picturesque Valparaíso.

Argentine University Program

Among the Spanish-speaking countries of the Western hemisphere, Argentina is a political giant, an impressive Western cultural center, and a fascinating trend-setter in politics and economics.

Our program is located in Buenos Aires, a cosmopolitan city where the cultural flavors, styles, and attitudes of its European roots are still evident.

Appendix: Statistics on Study Abroad

In addition to program information supplied in IIE's study abroad directories, Academic Year Abroad and Vacation Study Abroad, IIE conducts a statistical survey of the numbers of U.S. students going abroad for academic credit, published annually in Open Doors. As relatively few campus study abroad staff receive Open Doors, given its major focus on foreign students, the relevant chapters are excerpted here. Most active study abroad offices receive Academic Year Abroad.

For the 1997/98 Open Doors survey, forms were sent to 2,571 accredited colleges and universities throughout the United States which either had reported study abroad students in one of the three previous surveys, or were listed as having study abroad programs in IIE's Academic Year Abroad and Vacation Study Abroad. Campus officials were asked to provide information on the total number of their own students (students intending to receive their degree from the home institution) to whom they awarded credit for study abroad in 1996/97, including the summer of 1997. They were also asked to provide breakdowns, where possible, on the duration of their study, their academic level, program sponsorship, institutional policies for the award of financial aid, sex, race/ethnicity and current major field of study, and on the countries in which they studied.

Open Doors statistical surveys are made possible by grant support from the U.S. Information Agency. The research is conducted by the IIE Research Division under the direction of Todd M. Davis, and with the guidance of the International Education Data Collection Committee, composed of representatives of the American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers (AACRAO), the Institute of International Education (IIE), and NAFSA: Association of International Educators.

Open Doors statistics are compiled separately from Academic Year Abroad program information. Open Doors surveys are conducted by the IIE Research office. Academic Year Abroad and Vacation Study Abroad are publications of IIE Books, a unit of the Communications division.

DESTINATIONS OF U.S. STUDENTS STUDYING OVERSEAS

STUDY ABROAD

*Over the past decade the number of U.S. students receiving academic credit for study abroad as reported in Open Doors has increased from 48,483 to 99,448. Much of this growth occurred during the late 1980s. During the early years of this decade, enrollments increased only 2% a year on an annualized basis until 1994/95, which saw a strong 10% increase over the previous year.*

Last year the increase was 5.7%, and this year study abroad participation jumped by 11.4%.

The leading destinations for U.S. study-abroad students are the nations of Western Europe, especially the United Kingdom, Italy, Spain and France. Recently, however, a more diverse group of destinations, including Japan and Australia, has seen gradual enrollment increases.

Research institutions send the largest number of students abroad each year, sending over 42% of all study-abroad students. The leading major of study-abroad participants is the humanities and social sciences (34%). Over the last ten years, nontraditional fields such as business and the technical fields have seen small increases, while the traditional study abroad areas of the humanities, social sciences and foreign languages have seen proportionate decreases. This year, the percentage of students majoring in foreign languages fell by 1.4%.

While numbers of study-abroad enrollments have increased, the length of the sojourn is still rather brief: 54% of students study abroad for one semester or less and only 10% for an academic year. This trend towards ever-shorter sojourns appears to be quite robust.

The junior year abroad model still dominates: 41.3% of study-abroad students go during that year. Graduate students are a very small proportion (7.8%) of all study-abroad enrollments. Most study-abroad students are female (64.9%) and white (83.9%).

This year IIE sought to expand participation in the study-abroad survey. A letter of invitation to participate was sent to all colleges and universities that host international students but did not participate in the study abroad-survey. Over 1,300 institutions received the invitation to participate. Only 58 additional institutions reported that they had study abroad students and that they had the ability to report those students to IIE. This year survey forms were sent to 1,234 accredited colleges and universities throughout the United States. Information was obtained from 1,046 (84.7%) of the surveyed institutions. This overall survey response rate is comparable to last year's 84.4% rate of return. The data reflects credit received for study abroad participation in 1996/97 including the 1997 summer term.

MORE U.S. STUDENTS ARE GOING ABROAD

During the mid-1990s the number of U.S. students studying abroad has grown substantially.

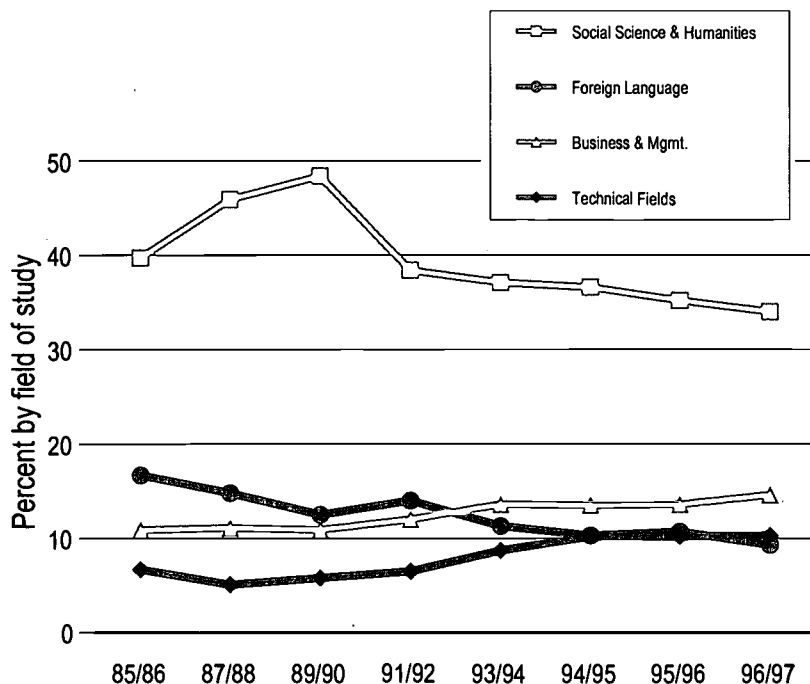

As in past years, Europe was by far the favorite destination for Americans who studied abroad in 1996/97: 64.5% chose to study there. After Europe was Latin America, hosting 15.3% of Americans studying abroad. Asia attracted 6.1%, Oceania 4.4%, Africa 2.6%, the Middle East 1.9%, and North America (Canada and Bermuda) only 0.7%. The most noteworthy changes since 1985/86 are that the share of Americans studying in Europe has fallen by nearly 18% while the share going to Latin America has more than doubled, from 7% to 15.3%. Six of the top ten receiving countries were in Western Europe, and they hosted over 55% of all U.S. students studying overseas. The top ten countries of destination hosted the vast majority (70%) of all American students studying overseas.

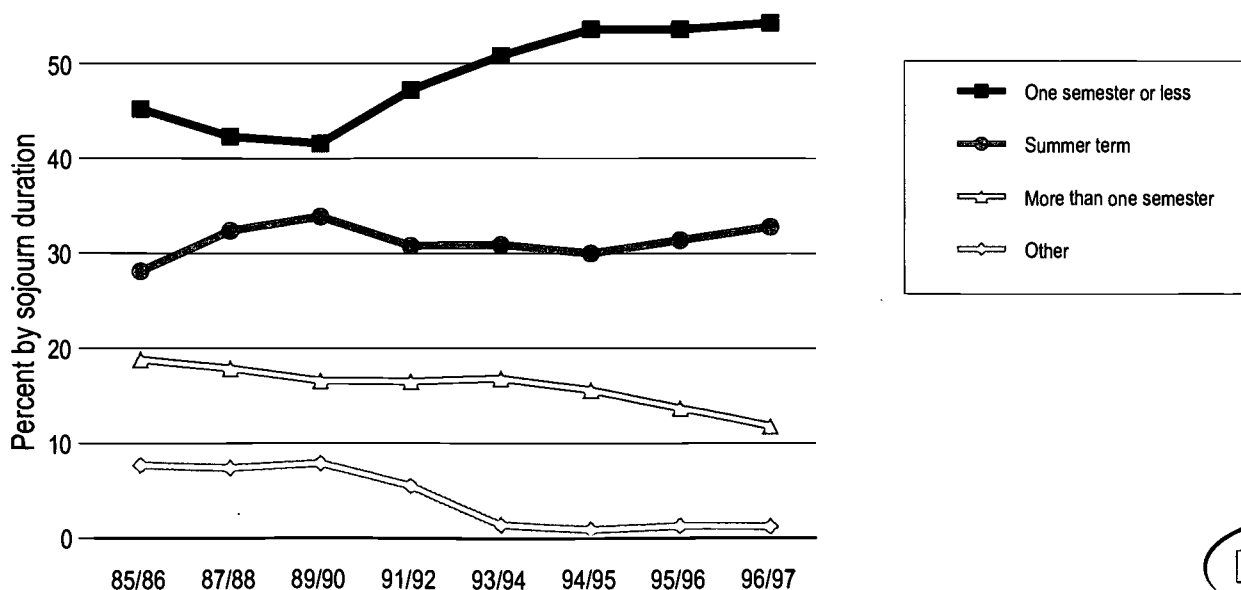

The United Kingdom hosted 22.9% of the American students, followed by Italy, Spain and France with about 9% each. The next six host countries were Mexico (6.9%), Australia and Germany (4% each), Costa Rica, Japan and Ireland (2% each).

BUSINESS OR PHILOSOPHY?

Since 1990 the proportion of U.S. students studying abroad who major in languages, social science and humanities has been dropping.

STUDY-ABROAD DURATIONS, 1985/86-1996/97

The length of student sojourns has been getting shorter over the past 10 years.

ABOUT THE SOJOURN

Americans who study abroad do so for very different reasons than foreign students who come to study in the United States. In contrast to foreign nationals in this country, Americans abroad have home-campus majors largely in the humanities and social sciences, with relatively few in engineering and in hard science fields. In 1996/97, the largest group of U.S. students who went abroad to study majored in social sciences and humanities (34%). The second largest group studied toward degrees in business (14.6%). Relatively large shares of the Americans who studied abroad majored in foreign languages (9.3%). The fields of engineering, physical and life sciences, and math and computer sciences combined for only 10%.

These field-of-study patterns have been changing over time, albeit slowly. Since 1990 the proportion of U.S. students who study abroad and major in both the social sciences and humanities or in foreign languages has been dropping, while the share majoring in business, the technical fields and a wide range of other fields has stayed flat or increased slightly. Over 54% of students studying abroad did so for the duration of one semester or less, while only 10% spent the entire academic year in the host country. The second most popular time period for a sojourn was the summer term (32%).

ABOUT THE INSTITUTIONS

Institutions that sponsor and accept study abroad credits are of all Carnegie types. Traditionally, study abroad experiences were pioneered at selective liberal arts institutions. Today, however, research institutions sponsor the largest proportion, about 43%, of study abroad students.

Students may access study abroad programs in a variety of ways. Institutions and their study abroad offices develop and manage their own programs, and they and independent consortia may administer programs for other institutions.

Nearly 73% of study abroad students completed their sojourns under the auspices of their own home institution, while 27% did so under the auspices of other institutions or consortial organizations.

Institutions provided a range of financing options for student sojourns. Fully 54% of reporting institutions indicated that all aid was available to students for study abroad under any sponsorship arrangement. The balance reported some limitations on aid, either state or institutional, for study abroad.

ABOUT THE STUDENTS

The vast majority (92%) of the study abroad population was at the undergraduate (bachelor and associate) level. Of those whose academic level was known, the largest group was juniors (41%), followed by seniors (18%), sophomores (13%) and freshmen (2%).

Less than 8% of the U.S. students who studied abroad for credit were graduate students. This proportion has remained stable over the past eight years. This contrasts sharply with the European nationals studying in the United States, about 40% of who were at the graduate level in 1996/97.

The sex distribution of the U.S. students who travel abroad for study was the inverse of that of the foreign students in the United States. Just over one-third (35%) of the U.S. students abroad were male, while a corresponding two thirds were female (65%). The male-to-female ratio among U.S. students studying abroad has remained stable since the 1980s.

PROFILE OF U.S. STUDY ABROAD STUDENTS, 1993/94 - 1996/97

The characteristics of the typical U.S. study abroad student have changed little over the past four years. The typical student is a white female who takes a junior year abroad.

STUDY ABROAD ENROLLMENTS BY ACADEMIC LEVEL

According to survey respondents, American students who participate in study abroad programs are largely white (84%). Hispanic and Asian-Americans constitute about 5% each of the study abroad total. African-Americans were 3.5% and Native Americans were 0.3% of all study abroad students, while 2.1% were identified as multiracial. Some caution must be exercised in interpreting these results, as most institutions do not track study abroad students by their race or ethnicity. Only about 40% of all reported study abroad students were so identified.

Index I: Sponsoring Institutions

Programs are indexed alphabetically by sponsoring institution. References are to sequential book entry numbers, not to the page on which the sponsor's entry appears.

If provided by the sponsor at the time of information-gathering, the URL (Uniform Resource Locator) indicating the program sponsor's home page address on the World Wide Web appears after the name of the sponsoring institution. Please keep in mind that this information was current at the time IIE conducted its research for this book. At publication, some addresses may have changed in this evolving area of media technology.

Study-abroad programs with up to three sponsors are indexed by the name of one, two or three sponsor organizations. Other programs are sponsored by larger groups of colleges and universities, or consortia. Index I: Sponsoring Institutions identifies these programs by the name of the consortium only. Index II: Consortia lists the member colleges and universities of each consortium that sponsors a program.

Index II: Consortia

Many programs are sponsored by consortia of colleges and universities. This index lists the member institutions of all consortia that sponsor programs in this book. For the book's purposes, a consortium is a group of more than three colleges and universities that jointly offer a study-abroad program.

If provided by the consortium at the time of information-gathering, the URL (Uniform Resource Locator) indicating the consortium's home page address on the World Wide Web appears after the contact address. Please keep in mind that this information was current at the time IIE conducted its research for this book. At publication, some addresses may have changed in this evolving area of media technology.

Students enrolled at a member institution of the consortia listed below should typically apply for admission through their home campus. Others should apply to the administering school or consortium office.

Index III: Fields of Study

Programs are indexed by field of study, and by country within field. Most fields of study are as given in the Classification of Instructional Programs of the National Center for Education Statistics. However, IIE has adapted the classification to accommodate the especially rich study-abroad opportunities in languages, civilization, culture, and other subjects specific to international study, adding a number of additional fields to the basic set.

Index IV: Special Options

Most programs in this book are intended for undergraduate students beyond the first year. However, a substantial number of programs offer graduate credit, or will accept freshmen or precollege students, or provide special opportunities for teachers, adults and professionals. This index can help to identify study opportunities for the many study-abroad candidates who are not upper-level undergraduates.

Users of this book can also use this index to find programs that offer study options other than the typical academic lecture, seminar or tutorial. Indexed below are such options as art studios, directed field study, independent study, internships, practical training, student teaching, study tours and voluntary service.

Index V: Cost Ranges

Use this index for approximate guidance only. Programs are indexed on the lowest cost option they offer as a package fee, which is virtually always for the shortest period of study offered.

Each range indicates specifically whether international travel is included in the cost or not. However, readers must consult individual program entries to determine what else is included in the program fee. Tuition, housing, food, fees, insurance, books and materials, international and local transportation are the basic categories of expenses incurred in studying abroad. Program fees may include all or only some of these costs.

Remember that IIE conducts the research for this book approximately one year before actual program dates. Program sponsors have the option of providing current actual charges or projected fees for the year covered by this book. Entries indicate which year's charges are provided.

Programs sponsored by foreign organizations often provide their costs in foreign currency. Because of exchange fluctuations, it is not useful to provide dollar equivalents for prices stated in foreign currencies. Use exchange rates current at the time of application to calculate approximate costs.

All applicants are well-advised to contact the program sponsor directly for the most up-to-date information on program charges before making a decision. Although program sponsors typically seek to stabilize prices, many factors can influence the cost of an international program. Contact the program sponsor for final information.
